

Anika Lee is a third year science student at UBC.

When she is not in school, her time is divided between volunteering, teaching piano, and recreational sports. Anika is a coordinator for the Learning Buddies Network, a charity dedicated to helping struggling children in inter-city schools with math and reading. She has been involved in this charity for over 5 years and strongly supports its values. Anika also enjoys teaching the piano. She has her Royal Conservatory Music Diploma of Piano Pedagogy and has been teaching for over 4 years.

Throughout her 15 years of playing piano, she has developed an appreciation for music and loves to share it with others. In addition, Anika has received her RCM ARCT Diploma and various music scholarships. Anika likes to stay active and enjoy the beautiful city by participating in many recreational sports, such as downhill skiing and ultimate Frisbee. Anika is very honoured to have received this scholarship and wishes the best of luck to all her peers.
